A PAPER OF PRINCIPLES

What is the cause of THE EVENING

Woman's great popularity?

It is "above all a newspaper," but that does not explain it all.

The mainspring of its success is that it is transcendently a paper of principles.

What is the evidence to prove this statement?

HERE IS SOME OF IT.

1. The Rescue of Jessie Shepard.
2. The Opening of Stuyvesant Park.
3. The Saving of Witte, an Innocent Man.
4. The Free Lectures for the People.
5. The Anti-Slavery War.
6. The Conviction of the Polio Sharps.
7. The Fight Against the Tyrannous Children's Law.

Each and every one of these movements in the public interest (No. 1 to No. 7) has been a clean-cut, decisive, unequivocal victory. No. 8 is in hand and is one of the most important pieces of public service ever undertaken. Its result is not likely to break the unbroken record of EVENING WORLD triumphs for the people.

WORLDINGS.

By the improper use of the single word "thereof" in the will of Mrs. Anne McCullough, who died in Pittsburgh recently, the sum of $120,000 will be diverted from the object for which she intended it.

The daily wages paid to James G. Blaine, Jr., during his apprenticeship at the machine shops of the Maine Central Railroad amount to 80 cents. This is at the rate of 10 cents an hour for every working hour.

For the supper to be served at the inauguration ball in Washington there will be provided 20,000 raw oysters, 20,000 stewed oysters, 8,000 chicken croquettes, 4,000 sweetbread pies, 300 gallons of terrapin, and other articles of food in proportion.

It is a singular fact that Congressman Burnes, who died suddenly in Washington last week, and Congressman Laird, who is hopelessly ill in Nebraska, were considered the strongest looking men in Congress. Mr. Burnes, although stout, broad-shouldered, and well-timed, gave the appearance of a man of bone and muscle who was burdened with but little superfluous flesh.

THAT WEEKS MURDER REWARD.

Brooklyn's strange neglect to pay over the offered $2,500.

The neglect of the City of Brooklyn to pay out the reward of $2,500 for the detection and arrest of the Weeks murderer has become a cause of much comment at Police Headquarters in this city.

After many weeks of vain search for the criminal Inspector Byrne's detectives arrested Greenwall, "Dutch" Miller and Krause for a robbery in Jersey City and secured a confession from Krause and another man which implicated Greenwall and Miller as the burglars and the former as the man who fired the fatal shot.

The Inspector followed up the trail and had Greenwall fully identified by the man who saw him in the vicinity of the Weeks house on the night of the robbery, on the ferry-boat and on the Reid avenue car. Greenwall was convicted, secured a second conviction and sentence, awaiting the time for execution.

In the second trial District Attorney Ridgway publicly acknowledged his obligations to Inspector Byrne for apprehending Greenwall and Miller, and securing the evidence which made the conviction for murder a certainty.

The Brooklyn authorities have made no movement towards paying over to Inspector Byrne the $2,500 reward, nor have they acknowledged his valuable services in any way.

When spoken to concerning it, Inspector Byrne said:

"I do not desire to discuss the matter. My relations with my Brooklyn brethren are very cordial, and we are ready at all times to assist each other. A reward was offered, never withdrawn and never paid. Of course I make and shall make no open claim for it."

MR. LESBUR'S VAIN REGRETS.

An Offer and Refusal of Lost Money Which Suggests a Parable.

THE ROLL OF BILLS that a gentleman picked up Saturday night in a fifth car, and which he had brought to the attention of the police, was asked to return to the gentleman who found it, 140 Broadway, city.

C. S. Leabur, a brown-haired, handsome young man who lives at 330 Madison avenue and clerks at Noble & Ferguson's insurance office, smiled on an EVENING WORLD reporter this morning as he related:

"I got a five-dollar gold piece so twisted in the watch pocket in my trousers that I was obliged to cut off the pocket to release it. I forgot this, and Saturday night I put two rolls of bills in that pocket—out of four tens and the other of six five-dollar bills.

I had been to a little dancing party, and got on a sixth avenue car at Fifty-fifth street at 11:30. I paid my fare from change. A gentleman picked up something and asked me: 'Did you drop anything?'

I felt and found my money all right, but later I discovered that I had lost both rolls of bills. They had dropped down my trousers leg.

The gentleman will remember me because of my white kid gloves and white dress vest."

"Then anxiously the young man asked: 'Do you think I will get the money?'

THEY ALL GET DRUNK.

The Means Are Many, But the End Is One.

A Long Step from Alcoholic Jamaica Ginger to Hasheesh.

Slaves to Drugs Which Lead to Insanity and Death.

"What is your case, officer?" asks a well-known Police Sergeant of a policeman who, with the assistance of two citizens and a horse of small boys, has conveyed an unconscious man to the station-house.

"Only a drunk," carelessly replies the officer.

An entry on the blotter is made and the unfortunate being is hustled down to a cell, where he wakes up in the morning with a head as big as a barrel, a thirst as unquenchable as the fires of hell and a repentant feeling that lasts until he can get the next drink.

The Sergeant upstairs lights a cigar and leans back in his chair musing upon the predicament of some people to get drunk. It is a puzzling question, and the Sergeant finally makes up his mind that it must have been Adam himself who started on the first drunk.

There is no record of this, however. The propensity to force stimulation upon the organs of the body, the Koraks get deliriously drunk on amanita. Ases' milk affords koma to the Chinook, and out of the millet the Kafir procures koma.

Rue, so highly esteemed in Syria and Greece, was what Solomon the Magnificent was wont to get drunk upon. Harley whiskey, on the Clyde, and the whisky in the Girondo to the applejack of the Jerseyman.

The free Switzer offers you absinthe of no less than seventy-two degrees, if you will, and the universal Yanki quaffs Bourbon at discretion, that is, to distraction. Out of malice, the Araucanian gets mato, and the Malay the Kafir procures koma.

Suffice it to say that people will get drunk on anything that happens at hand. By the way, what elegant houses the alone list of deceptions would make, and what a picture the man who would drink it would be the next morning.

In the country people will use anything and everything to stimulate. If they cannot get beer, whiskey, or wine they will get something else. In the category as "some-thing else" is included opium, cannabis indica (Indian hemp), familiarly known as hasheesh, cocaine, belladonna and hy-cyanus. Connecticut and Jersey lightning are barred.

JAMAICA-GINGER DRINKS.

The latest fad, however, is to get drunk on Jamaica ginger. You'll probably disagree with this statement and gently whisper "Rats!" but it's just the way it is.

In fact, a man was recently arrested for getting the mad inhabitants of Betham roaring and hilariously drunk on this same Jamaica ginger.

The man in question was William H. Doble, a grocer, who was arrested in the Superior court of Betham last December. He was charged with violating the liquor law. Doble was doing an immense business, and was rapidly becoming the most popular man in town. Two cases of ginger were found in his store, and he was fined $100.

Hyocyanus and belladonna are very little used, although they will produce all the effects of the above-mentioned drugs. They are more difficult to obtain and less pleasant to take. Belladonna, however, is in common use by females who use it chiefly to brighten up their eyes.

The physician in charge of the alcoholic ward in Bellevue Hospital says that very few cases are seen there, except those of a few drunkards. As a rule, it is not a very pleasant place to be in, and there are thousands of poor unfortunates who are fast approaching their graves through the medium of these drugs.

THE FINEST AS HOSTS.

Gov. Hill Will Attend the Police Captains' Dinner To-Night.

The police captains assembled at Police Headquarters this morning to perfect the arrangements for their annual dinner at Delmonico's to-night. Mayor Grant will preside.

Gov. Hill will be present, he having come from his country seat, where he has been 275 covers ordered.

Speeches will be made by Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, F. R. Condit, Chauncey M. Depew, Col. Fellows, Police Commissioner Stephen B. French, Supt. Murray and Judge Martine.

STEADY SHOPPING TO-DAY.

THAT'S THE PROGRAMME FOR MRS. HARRISON AND HER PARTY.

The Business Purpose of Their Visit to Be Thoroughly Accomplished Before the Ladies Yield to Social Pressure—After Their Orders Are Filled They Will See the Sights of the City.

The Social demands upon Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and her party have been so numerous that their shopping, which was the main object of their visit, has been greatly interfered with.

They determined, therefore, to make no engagements for to-day, but to devote their entire time to visiting the stores.

The purchases of Mrs. Harrison are of the simplest description, nothing which savors of showy display being in accordance with her taste or desires.

After their shopping, the ladies will return to the hotel, where they will remain quietly during the remainder of the day, discussing their future actions and conferring over the results of their shopping expeditions. While they may receive a few intimate friends, they will make no calls.

The ladies are overwhelmed with the hospitality shown them since their arrival. A constant stream of friends has been in attendance, and their visit is one to be looked back upon with much pleasure.

Mr. McKee will in all probability return to Indianapolis to-morrow morning, as business in there requires his attention. The time of the ladies' departure is uncertain, since, after their business mission is accomplished, they will undoubtedly accept some of the numerous invitations to visit friends, and this may prolong their stay for some days.

Through an error it was reported that Miss McKee would visit this city to-day. As this is liable to cause confusion among the friends of the distinguished visitors, a correction is earnestly desired by them. Miss McKee has no such intention.

The party were very hospitable over the sermon of Dr. Hall, at whose church they attended services yesterday in company with Col. Elliott F. Shepard.

Although this city is familiar to both Mrs. Harrison and her daughter, there is always something new to be seen, and when their orders are filled an extensive sight-seeing tour will be indulged in, which will include visits to several theatres, art galleries, &c. Invitations to these places are accumulating as their stay is prolonged.

This evening one of the theatres will be visited, but which one has not yet been decided upon.

MAYOR GRANT WARNED.

A CRAZY LETTER FROM WHITE CAP DIVISION No. 60, City.

Mayor Grant was in receipt of the following crazy communication in his morning mail:

To the Mayor Grant, City.

Please do us a favor.

We are sick of houses in the city. Better look after something else; better regulate the streets that they dump no ashes in. Day after day people get sick there. Also, do not allow anybody to put their wagons or carts on the sidewalk to keep people back from their work, and last to make owners of houses to have the sidewalk clean from snow and ice before 9 or 10 o'clock every morning. Else we leave you at residence.

THE STRIKING FEATHER-WORKERS.

They May Start a Co-operative Factory if the Boxes Hold Out.

Ten of the girls who were locked out of the feather-working establishments last week found work this morning at the establishment of T. H. Wood & Co., 533 Broadway.

This is the only firm that now pays the union price, and the girls employed there have agreed to make up $100 a week for the benefit of their striking sisters.

The strikers continue to be confident of winning their point all around, but if the strike continues more than two or three weeks, they will probably start a co-operative factory.

This idea has not been formally considered by the girls, but they have been offered some decidedly strong inducements to take such a step.

They Just Missed Greatness.

[Chicago Tribune, Washington Correspondence.]

There is a man in Washington who holds a high official place who would have been made Chief Justice if he had not been in the habit of getting drunk. This same man appeared at the office of the District Commissioners the other day pleading in the capacity of citizen, and not as an official or lawyer, that a retail liquor license issue to a person who had been reported to the police as unfit to have such privilege. Another Democrat might have been appointed Chief Justice if President Cleveland had not discovered that his wife, though a worthy woman, had passed most of her days raising babies, geese, ducks, pigs and chickens.

Not Responsible.

[From Harper's Bazar.]

Mother—To think that my little Ethel should have spoken so impertinently to papa to-day at dinner! She never hears me talk in that way to him.

Ethel (stoutly)—Well, you chose him, and I did it.
